Fall Break 2010: Staff Congress President Phil Schooley said that Faculty Regent Jay Morgan has made a proposal regarding adding a day to the Fall Break for 2010. Staff Regent Gina Winchester read the proposal which asked that the Fall 2010 semester start one day earlier and that one day be added to Fall Break. She noted that at its December 2008 meeting, the general consensus of Staff Congress members was to add two days to the Thanksgiving Break instead of extending Fall Break. Because the university is not closed for Fall Break, staff in departments such as Food Services, the Library, and the Curris Center, must work those days. Those staff do not have to work on days the university is closed, such as during Thanksgiving Break. Discussion followed.

Orville Herndon made a motion that Staff Congress not support this effort (the proposal submitted by Faculty Regent Jay Morgan) at this time. Terri Benton seconded. A hand vote was taken: Yes=15; No=0.

Proposed addition of “grandparents” to Sick Leave Policy wording: Michael Busby distributed a survey similar to the one given to Staff Congress members at the December 2008 meeting. He asked those in attendance to rank family members listed on the survey. At the December meeting, Staff Congress members ranked the family members according to their personal family structures. At today’s meeting, Michael asked that members rank the members in the order that would apply to the family structures of their co-workers.

Mr. Hoffacker noted that he hopes to have the issue of adding “grandparents” to the Sick Leave Policy wording settled by the end of January 2009.

The salary and benefits equity review may possibly start this summer.
