Guest Speakers: Amman Ali, Bassam Tariq
Muslims for the month of Ramadan are required to fast, going without food or drink from sunrise to sunset. There are an estimated 7 million Muslims living in the United States that come from a wide mix of ethnic backgrounds including African Americans, South and East Asians, Arabs and East Africans. Each day during Ramadan, Aman Ali and Bassam Tariq visited a different state and blogged about the experience each night, highlighting stories about the people they met, the mosque they prayed in and of course the tasty cuisines each place had to offer. |
