Mission

The College of Humanities and Fine Arts strives to foster awareness and appreciation of the humanities, fine arts, and social sciences among students, the university community, and the public. The College is a learning community dedicated to the pursuit of knowledge and its application through civic and professional leadership. Students and faculty members act as advocates for the humanities, fine arts, and social sciences in a variety of ways, ranging from teaching and scholarly work to performance, exhibition, and consultation. To this end, the College actively promotes research and creative activities among its faculty and students.

The College seeks to provide a personalized learning experience promoting the free and rigorous pursuit of knowledge, respect for differing points of view and cultures, appreciation of personal expression in all its artistic forms, awareness of the role of an educated citizenry in a democratic society, and understanding of the role values play in thought and action. The College aims to develop students who think critically and creatively, communicate effectively, and participate actively in their communities. Thus, the College of Humanities and Fine Arts is committed to preparing well-educated, thoughtful, and contributing citizens of the world.

Programs

The College of Humanities and Fine Arts consists of the departments of Art and Design; English and Philosophy; Government, Law and International Affairs; History; Modern Languages; Music; Psychology; Theatre; and the Sociology program.

Undergraduate degrees offered by the college are bachelor of science, bachelor of arts, bachelor of fine arts, bachelor of music education, and bachelor of music. Graduate degrees are master of science, master of arts, master of fine arts, master of music education, and master of public administration. Murray State University is an accredited institutional member of the National Association of Schools of Art and Design, the National Association of Schools of Music and the National Association of Schools of Theatre.

The College offers programs in the traditional humanities (English, philosophy, history, and modern languages); social sciences (political science and sociology); and behavioral science (psychology). The fine and performing arts (art, music, and theatre) offer traditional and contemporary programs in their disciplines through studio and classroom courses, performances, gallery events, and ensembles. Additionally, the college encourages all students to participate in the cultural and artistic life of the campus through creative writing colloquia, poetry readings, exhibitions, and participation in music ensembles, marching band, and/or choral groups. The college offers a variety of innovative arts, humanities, and social science courses through the institution's University Studies curriculum. English composition and the two interdisciplinary core courses, World Civilizations & Cultures and Humanities, are integral parts of preparing every Murray State student to communicate effectively, to engage in sound analysis and make logical decisions, to understand the world's historical, literary, and philosophical traditions, to understand cultural diversity and competing economic and political systems as well as complex moral and ethical issues, and to become responsible citizens in a democratic society—all of which are desired characteristics of the Murray State graduate.

The college serves as the cultural heart of the university and the region by providing a broad range of cultural and intellectual programs. Campus and regional community members are encouraged to attend college events. Distinguished college faculty engage actively in teaching, research/creative activities, and service. The college is committed to service to the community through its role in teacher education and involvement with the public schools. The English and Philosophy Department sponsors the Jesse Stuart Writing Symposium as well as the MSU Reading Series each academic year. The Department of Government, Law and International Affairs annually sponsors the Harry Lee Waterfield Distinguished Lecture in Public Affairs.

In addition, the college offers students rich opportunities for international study and intercultural experience. The Kentucky Institute for International Studies is a consortium of 20 public and private universities offering study-abroad programs in over 16 international destinations. Many college faculty are also involved in foreign travel and study in English-speaking countries. Opportunities to study in the U.K., Ireland, Australia, and Canada are available.

Graduates of programs in the college pursue a variety of careers. In addition to teaching, graduates are employed in business, communications, government, law, the ministry, psychology, and a variety of private and social agencies, as well as international governmental and non-governmental organizations. Careers available in the fine arts fields include performance (vocal, instrumental, and theatrical), design, web design, graphic communications, and art, museum, and theatre management. All programs follow the liberal arts model of preparing students broadly for a rapidly changing job market. Students are prepared to communicate effectively, think critically, develop the analytical skills necessary to solve problems, learn on their own, understand human behavior, and imagine alternative ways of viewing problems. Several of the programs in the college provide excellent preparation for a career in law.

Liberal Arts

The Liberal Arts major is designed for students interested in investigating connections between two or more traditional liberal arts fields. Following a wide-reaching University Studies and core program, students choose two 18-hour concentrations from a range of fields of study drawn from the arts, humanities, natural sciences, and social sciences, plus a minor, and at least one Study Abroad experience. Liberal Arts majors also produce a senior project in which they explore a topic of interest that combines at least two of their areas of study.

The Liberal Arts major is designed to respond to the need for leaders who can think creatively across the disciplines. Liberal Arts majors prepare to serve the growing demand in business, industry, and the professions for broadly educated individuals who exhibit interpersonal, analytical, technical, and communication skills, as well as individual initiative.

Department of Art and Design

Chair: Dick Dougherty. Faculty: Atkinson, Barbaro, Beaver, Bishop, Bryant, Dougherty, Gutwirth, Hand, Johnson, Jung, Leys, Sasso, Schrock, Serre, Smetana, Speight, Utgaard.

The Department of Art and Design provides a broad range of programs and professional opportunities for students preparing to work as practicing artists, craftspersons and designers, for careers in art education, and for graduate study in art, art education and art history.

Students pursuing a degree in art may select a program of study leading to either the Bachelor of Fine Arts, the Bachelor of Arts or the Bachelor of Science degree. Teacher certification in art is available to undergraduate students within each degree as an option requiring only an additional year of study. Degree candidates are certified to teach art in kindergarten through grade 12. A minor in art and a minor in art history are also offered to the general college student. Elective courses in art appreciation, art history, and studio art are open to non-art majors.

College of Humanities and Fine Arts

The curricular structure of each degree program is organized to encourage students to study and explore a variety of media and techniques upon which later specialization may be based. Areas of specialization include ceramics, drawing, furniture design, graphic design, metalsmithing, photography, painting, printmaking, and sculpture. At the intermediate and advanced levels, students are encouraged by faculty to express their own personal direction and ideas and to establish professional standards by the exhibition of their work. The culmination of the student's undergraduate study is the senior exhibition requirement.

The Institute for International Studies, the Kentucky Institute for International Studies, and the Cooperative Center for Study in Britain offer a variety of study abroad opportunities for MSU art students. Through direct exchanges and special international courses, students can study in more than a dozen countries.

The department operates two galleries on campus. The Clara M. Eagle Gallery and the Curris Center Gallery provide the university and community with significant cultural and educational programs. The exhibition schedule offers work by historical and contemporary artists including MSU faculty, students, alumni and visiting artists. A large portion of the exhibition space is continually used by the students. Department, class and/or individual shows are always on view. Programs include the annual student art show and the visiting artist series.

Studios in all areas are well equipped, providing maximum opportunities for students to pursue their interests. Art facilities are housed primarily in the Price Doyle Fine Arts Center. The Clara M. Eagle Gallery is located on the sixth floor of the Price Doyle Fine Arts Center. The art gallery in the Curris Center is located on the first level.

NOTE: A grade of C or better must be achieved in all courses with the ART prefix that are applied to art area degree requirements. All courses with the ART prefix that serve as prerequisites require a grade of C or better before the next course in a sequence may be taken.

Scholarships

Scholarships and grants-in-aid are available to qualified art students. For additional information refer to the scholarship section of this Bulletin or contact the scholarship person in the Department of Art.

Accreditation

Murray State University is an accredited institutional member of the National Association of Schools of Art and Design (NASAD). Teacher certification programs are also accredited by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE).

Credit by Examination

The credit by examination programs in which the MSU Department of Art and Design participates are the Advanced Placement Program of the College Board (APP), the departmental challenge examination, and the non-credit placement examination. Test results are subject to evaluation prior to credit approval. For additional information contact the department chair.

Department of English and Philosophy

7C9 Faculty Hall

270-809-2401

Chair: Staci Stone. Faculty: Adair, Babcock, Bell, Binfield, Brown, Carthell, Claywell, Cobb, Crofton, Dawkins, Edminster, Gayman, Goggins, Helton, Jerrell, Johns, Johnson, Jones, Martell, Morgan, Murphy, Neelon, Osborne, Roulston, Song, Sroda, Trites, Walker, Wezner, Xia.

The Department of English and Philosophy helps students explore the world of words and ideas while preparing for a variety of creative and dynamic careers. Students majoring in the department's programs can look forward to success in fields such as creative writing, technical writing, business, publishing, teaching, law, and journalism. Through their studies at Murray State, English and Philosophy majors gain the flexibility of a well-developed mind, a facility with the power of language, and the analytical skills employers want.

To reach their goals, students may choose from a number of areas, options, and minors. Note: Each Option program described below—Literature Option, Creative Writing Option, English Education Option—shares a core of courses.

English Education Program

The English Education Program helps students develop the skills needed to succeed as teachers in the classroom. The program works in conjunction with the College of Education to prepare students for certification as middle and secondary school teachers. The department offers the B.A. within the English/Education area.

Creative Writing Program

The Creative Writing Program helps students prepare for careers in editing, publishing, law, advertising, journalism, and communications, in addition to helping them grow as practicing poets and/or fiction writers and teachers of creative writing. Students may earn a B.F.A in Creative Writing degree or a B.A. in English/Creative Writing Option. A minor is offered in creative writing as well.

Literature Program

Literature Program students examine the fiction, poetry, drama, and film of a wide variety of traditions, from ancient to contemporary. The program helps students develop a broad sense of literature, focusing on both traditional and non-canonical writers in English. A B.A. degree in English/Literature is available, as well as minors in literature and rhetoric.

Philosophy Program

Students enrolled in the Philosophy program explore the historical trajectory of philosophical thought and its current applications in many professional and academic fields. Philosophy is a critical and reflective discipline, the study of which strengthens students' evaluative and moral reasoning skills, and prepares students to succeed in future endeavors such as law school, seminary, medicine, business, computer science, and education. Students may earn a major or minor in philosophy.

Graduate Programs

Students interested in graduate study in English should examine the MSU Graduate Bulletin for descriptions of the following programs: Master of Arts in English (with options in literature, English education, and English with philosophy as a cognate discipline); a Master of Arts in Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL); and a low-residency Master of Fine Arts in Creative Writing.

 government@murraystate.edu

Chair: Farouk F. Umar. Faculty: Attar, Battle, Beck, Chaney, Clingermayer, Daughaday, Glover, LaValle, McCutchen, Rose, Shope, Umar, Wattier, Yu.

Curricula of the department afford enough specialization and career education to prepare students for enrollment in professional and graduate programs, or for participation in various occupational classifications immediately upon graduation. Students completing baccalaureate programs in the department will be granted either the Bachelor of Arts or the Bachelor of Science degree. Major programs are offered in political science, international affairs, and sociology. Minor programs are offered in political science, international affairs, legal studies/paralegal, social science and sociology.

The Department of Government, Law and International Affairs provides several avenues to professional and academic competence. Besides specific courses preparing students for a broad variety of occupational choices in international affairs, politics and public administration, and legal studies, University Studies classes furnish an opportunity for students to become more familiar with the international environment and the American political system. The department functions in close harmony with other academic units across campus and draws from other programs to complement its offerings. Pre-law advising and law school placement services are coordinated by the legal studies component within the department.

The outcome of the above fields of study is that graduates of the programs must demonstrate oral and written communication skills which follow the conventions of standard English usage and meet the criteria for clarity, organization, development and thoughtfulness; must have acquired basic understanding of research methodologies, i.e. the use of statistical analysis and computer applications; and should have acquired an understanding of the basic concepts, systems and problems of their discipline in particular and liberal arts education in general.

Curriculum Outline for Pre-Law

Most of the nation's law schools reject the idea of a rigid pre-law curriculum as a means of preparing students for entrance into law school. The undergraduate pre-law student is actually working toward two different objectives: admission to law school and an undergraduate education which will complement the law degree once obtained.

The type of undergraduate degree pursued may depend on the type of law in which you intend to specialize. For example, if you want to become a tax attorney, you might concentrate in accounting and economics. If copyright law interests you, an undergraduate degree in music or art would be beneficial. Those students interested in government service or politics may want to pursue a degree in political science.

Many students do not have a particular field of law identified prior to entering college. For these students a broad liberal arts education, including particularly those subjects which deal with people, such as political science and the other Social and Self-Awareness and Responsible Citizenship, is important. Murray State University's commitment to a liberal arts education through its University Studies requirements is appropriate to this objective. All pre-law students should be aware that communications skills are very important, and for this reason, courses in English, speech and foreign languages should be considered.

Sociology

The sociology program is a liberal arts program oriented toward increasing the student's understanding of human society, the groups and institutions of which it is composed, and its impact on human beings. Sociology helps develop one's appreciation of diversity, love of learning, writing and study skills, as well as a knowledge base about human behavior, social research, social organization and culture. Sociology is a potential major for students planning futures in such professions as law, business, education, and politics. Sociology provides a rich fund of knowledge directly concerning each of these fields. But rather than prepare the student for a narrow specialty, sociology prepares the individual for a lifetime of learning and change to meet the challenges and opportunities of an increasingly complex society. The sociology program will provide students with a solid foundation for their chosen careers upon graduation or for more specialized graduate education in such fields as public health, law, Social and Self-Awareness and Responsible Citizenship, or a number of other professional fields.

Department of History
6B Faculty Hall
270-809-2231

Chair: Terry Strieter. Faculty: Beahan, Belue, Bolin, Callahan, Carpenter, Clardy, Gannon, Humphreys, Mulligan, Pizzo, Rashid, Schell, Strieter.

Department of History course offerings support University Studies requirements, provide concentrations in American, European, and Third World studies for a major or minor, and offer programs leading to the Master of Arts degree in history.

The department contributes substantially to the world civilizations and culture courses and offers electives, The American Experience and Modern Europe, which meet University Studies requirements in social science. These University Studies courses encourage students to appreciate the diverse paths humans have taken to the present as well as their own distinctive cultural heritage.

Specialized instruction for undergraduate majors and minors in history is intended to develop knowledge of the past and the skills of critical inquiry necessary for careers in teaching, the professions, government and business. Many students are currently combining a major in history with a major in other fields. The department provides a Master of Arts degree program for teachers in schools and community colleges, for those who wish to pursue advanced study at the doctoral level, and for students interested in history-related careers other than teaching. The department also serves as a home for the Religious Studies Minor.

Department of Modern Languages 4A Faculty Hall 270-809-2501

Chair: Janice Morgan. Faculty: Barnett, Bodevin, Brown, Drake, Ebert, Hatakeyama, Howe, Kaneko, Morgan, Saint Paul, Waag.

The Department of Modern Languages provides an important facet of the liberal education of all students by offering a variety of courses in French, German, Spanish, Japanese, and the cultures and literatures of those countries where these languages are spoken. These courses increase the cultural and linguistic awareness of students, help them fulfill the University Studies and B.A. requirements, and prepare them for language examinations in graduate school. Modern language courses develop skills and provide information and experience that help prepare students for citizenship in a rapidly changing world.

The Modern Language major is designed to train students to communicate effectively with native speakers of the language studied; read and appreciate the cultural and historical significance of important works of native literature; and understand fundamental cultural characteristics of another part of the world. All students take a common core of courses as well as several electives and a senior seminar. Student progress in language skills is measured according to standards established by the American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages in order to ensure an appropriate level of proficiency in the various skills.

The department strongly recommends that all language majors and minors study abroad for at least one summer session. The Kentucky Institute for International Studies offers programs in a number of countries. Other study-abroad opportunities are available through the department and the Institute for International Studies.

The department also strongly recommends that all language majors take more than the required number of hours in order to attain increased proficiency in the language.

Those who pursue a language as a major or minor may apply their language training to careers in various fields of endeavor. The study of modern languages and cultures opens the door to a cosmopolitan world which any educated person should be able to understand and appreciate. It gives the student significant practical advantages in the modern world of employment and magnifies humanistic insight which is of incalculable value in successful living.

The department strives to keep pace with the changing needs and interests of students and society and with the most current teaching methods. Creativity, flexibility and individual attention characterize its programs. The department's facilities include modern offices and classrooms and the Language and Culture Resource Center, a multi-media lab providing students with computer assisted learning tools as well as e-mail and Internet access.

The Graduate Bulletin contains information on the Master of Arts in English, the Master of Arts in Education, and the Master of Arts in TESOL, which accept modern language courses as part of the curriculum.

Bachelor of Arts Degree Requirement. All Bachelor of Arts candidates must complete 12 hours of course work in a single foreign language. Credit may be granted for high school study of the same language based on the departmental challenge process (see Credit by Examination, below) and students may begin language study at the level indicated by their placement exam (see Placement, below). Some departments require the Bachelor of Arts degree in the College of Humanities and Fine Arts.

Placement. All students new to the language programs at Murray State are required to take a placement exam to determine at which level of their language they should begin (102, 201, 202, 301, etc.). This exam will be required of all students with prior language experience, including native speakers. We strongly advise students to begin to fulfill their language requirement during the first 30 hours of the undergraduate degree at MSU. The Placement Exam can be taken on-line by accessing the Department of Modern Languages web page at www.murraystate.edu/chfa/modernlanguages/index.htm, and accessing the Placement Policy link. The results of the Placement Exam will be forwarded directly to the department.

Credit by Examination. If a student has previously acquired knowledge of French, German, or Spanish (the languages regularly taught at MSU), a maximum of 12 college credits, up to and including the level of 301, may be awarded. The awarding of credit will be based on the applicant's success in either of the following options:

Option (1): The Departmental Challenge Process. The Departmental Challenge Process consists of taking the Placement Exam and completing the appropriate course (102 or higher) determined by the score on the Placement Exam, with the grade of A or B. The Placement Exam score must be current (within the calendar year). The student then must complete an "Application for Challenge Credit" available in the department office and file the approved application with the Admissions & Registrar's Office. There is a fee of $5.00 per credit hour for each hour of credit awarded. It is the responsibility of the student to apply for Challenge Credit and application must be made while the student is enrolled at MSU.

Option (2): The CLEP Examination. Students may take the CLEP examination which is administered by the Counseling and Testing Center on campus. Credit is awarded based upon the student's score on the CLEP examination. CLEP examination scores must be recent (within the calendar year) to be eligible for credit. Fees are required for the CLEP examination.

Option (3): The Advanced Placement (AP) Examination. Credit is awarded based upon the student's score on the Advanced Placement Examination in Language and/or Literature.

Department of Music
504 Price Doyle Fine Arts Center
270-809-4288

Chair: Pamela Wurgler. Faculty: Almquist, Aucoin, Baker, Black, Brown, Conklin, D’Ambrosio, Dressler, Erickson, Fannin, Field, J. Hill, T. Hill, D. Johnson, Locke, Mazzoni, Mitchell, Palmer, Park, Rea, Scott, Swisher.

The Department of Music at Murray State University strives to provide educational experiences that enhance student’s understanding, appreciation, and value of music through performance and curricular offerings; to engender in its students a pursuit of knowledge and wonder for music; to value and strengthen the traditions of music in academia while encouraging innovation; to be a hallmark of musical activity both on campus and in the region; to educate students for careers in performance, teaching, production, management, and other venues where music lives; to build an environment that fosters creativity and productivity among faculty, students, and staff; to serve out art and the community at large in preparing music educators for the future; to refine and extend the skills and knowledge of music students beyond the baccalaureate level; and to provide leadership, enrichment, and resources for the region’s music professionals.

It is also an objective of the department to enrich the cultural life of the university, local and state communities through educational and performance activities.

Undergraduate degrees offered in the department are the Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, and the Bachelor of Music. The Bachelor of Music degree program offers options in either performance or music education. An academic minor in music is also available.

The degree programs reflect a core of basic musicianship and general study needs common to all musicians. The attendant specialized courses help students develop and refine competencies toward careers in teaching and performing as well as other specific interests.

The general college student (non-music major) is encouraged to continue or develop music interests and involvements through participation in performance groups, attendance at performances, and by taking a wide variety of courses open to the non-major.

Music facilities in the Price Doyle Fine Arts Center include recital halls, rehearsal halls, computer-lab and digital synthesis, keyboard laboratories, practice rooms, repair facilities, recording facilities, specially equipped classrooms and storage facilities.

Note: Performance proficiencies in applied music must be passed after the second and fourth semesters of study to remain in the program and to progress to the next level of applied lessons. A grade of C or better must be achieved in all music coursework required for the music degree sought.

Admission

In addition to admission to the University, prospective music major and minor students must be admitted to Department of Music academic programs through a qualifying audition in their performance area. Contact the Department of Music for further information.

Degree Requirements

In addition to the requirements listed with each music degree, a grade of C or better is required for graduation in all courses, including ensembles, specifically required by the music degree being pursued.

Scholarships

Grants-in-aid and scholarships are available to the music major and, in some cases, for non-major music participation. For information refer to the scholarship section of this Bulletin or write to the Department of Music.

Accreditation

The Department of Music has been an institutional member of the National Association of Schools of Music since 1936. Degree programs are arranged in conformity with the requirements of the National Association of Schools of Music.

Graduate Degree

The Master of Music Education Degree is offered in the department. For additional information refer to the Graduate Bulletin or contact the graduate advisor in music.

¹Six successful semesters of MUS 098 are required. To successfully complete the course each semester the student must gain credit for 13 approved recitals and have no more than one absence from required assembly programs.

²Applied music is studied for four semesters at two credit hours per semester and four additional semesters at one or two credit hours per semester. Voice majors must register for MUS 225 and MUS 226.

³Non-keyboard majors must study piano or take the appropriate functional keyboard class for two semesters. All keyboard majors must pass the Functional Keyboard IV competency exam. Keyboard majors who have fulfilled the functional keyboard requirement may elect to study another instrument (e.g., organ, harpsichord, voice, etc.) with the approval of the academic advisor.

Research project. In lieu of a recital, the student may propose a scholarly document. The proposal may be presented as early as the beginning of the fifth semester of study and no later than after the sixth semester of study. The proposal is prepared under the guidance of the student's advisor and submitted to a three-member committee.

⁵Performance track. The student interested in performance has the option of taking applied music instruction for two credit hours each semester for eight semesters. The culmination of study will be the senior recital (MUS 498).

Recital. The student, in consultation with the applied teacher and the academic advisor, makes a preliminary decision at the end of the fourth semester of study toward either the performance or research track. The final decision must be made by the end of the sixth semester of study. If the performance track is chosen, a half-recital will be performed.

¹Admission to this degree program is conditional for first year. Continuation in the program is dependent upon advice of applied teacher and departmental chair after assessment of performance talent, achievement and general musicianship. The student in pursuit of the degree is advised to gain an academic minor or minors and/or a companion degree.

²Six successful semesters of MUS 098 are required. To successfully complete the course each semester the student must gain credit for 13 approved recitals and have no more than one absence from required assembly programs.

³Applied music is studied at two or three credits in the first two semesters and three credits in semesters three through eight. Periodic jury and proficiency examinations are required. A half-recital (MUS 398) is required in the junior year and a full recital (MUS 498) is required in the senior year. A solo appearance with a performing ensemble approved by the applied teacher and department chair is required (MUS 499).

⁴Vocal majors must complete the additional two credit hours in applied piano. Instrumental majors may complete the additional two credit hours on a secondary instrument in any applied area. If piano or organ is chosen as the secondary instrument, study will begin after the completion of MUS 275.

⁵All students in the performance option of the B.M. degree must pass the Functional Keyboard IV competency exam followed by two credit hours of applied secondary study. Students are advised into the correct section of Functional Keyboard according to demonstrated ability and achievement.

⁶At least one course must be an unrestricted elective outside the major.

Music Minor 25 hrs

Students may also take 300-level applied study once the 200-level proficiency has been passed. Students must meet course prerequisites or have permission of the instructor if there is a prerequisite. Elective applied study is dependent upon studio space. At least six hours must be upper level courses completed in residence at Murray State. Students must earn the grade of C or better to progress in all sequence courses. Applied Lessons: Students study for four consecutive semesters with concurrent appropriate ensemble participation. Enrollment in MUS 170 at the earliest offering of the course or prior to completion of MUS 170 is required for enrollment in applied music study. Piano students with keyboard background may challenge one or both of the functional keyboarding classes.

Ensembles: Students are required to be in an ensemble for four semesters concurrent with applied music. Any ensemble is acceptable but conditional upon audition requirements (if any) being met. Students should take two semesters of ensembles at the 100-level and the following two semesters of ensembles at the 300-level.

Department of Psychology

212A Wells Hall

Chair: Renae D. Duncan. Faculty: Dooley, Duncan, Gedra, Liljequist, Norris, Ritter, Royalty, Waddill, Wann, Zingrone.

The Department of Psychology provides a liberal arts oriented program of studies which covers the many topics of the broad discipline of psychology. The curriculum is designed to enable students who major in psychology to (1) become knowledgeable about the basic principles of behavior, (2) acquire research and problem-solving skills, and (3) learn how psychological knowledge can be applied in service settings to promote human welfare. The department also provides a flexible minor which can be combined with majors in other fields to provide students in those fields an appropriate background in psychology.

Completion of the psychology major prepares the student for a variety of activities in occupations in which an understanding of human behavior is important (e.g. public relations, personnel management, social welfare, mental health and child care). Professional careers in psychology normally require graduate training and the undergraduate major constitutes excellent preparation for entry into graduate programs in psychology. This major also serves as a good background for entry into graduate study in a number of other professional fields which have a strong psychological dimension or require a knowledge of behavioral science research techniques. The department offers its own graduate programs in two areas, general psychology and clinical psychology.

The department's physical facilities include laboratories which are equipped for research and a computer laboratory. In addition, the Psychological Center, operated by the department, serves as a training facility for graduate students and as a mental health resource for referrals from university and community agencies. The center, located in Wells Hall, has facilities for psychological testing, counseling, and therapy.

Department of Theatre
 106 Fine Arts
 270-809-4421

Chair: David Balthrop. Faculty: Awori, Balthrop, Elliott, Graham, Hanan, Menchinger, Ortega.

The Department of Theatre seeks to provide a balanced and comprehensive theatre experience for students that place an emphasis upon theatre production. The Department of Theatre provides experiential learning in acting, directing, design and technical theatre in an environment conducive to teaching, learning and personal development. We empower the student’s knowledge of the craft as they pursue theatre in a global, common-good context while learning a life-long respect for the theatrical art form and its history. Furthermore, the Department of Theatre is committed to providing educational and professional support to K-12 schools and regional theatres.

The department utilizes three (3) performance spaces: Robert E. Johnson Theatre (seats 344), Actor’s Studio Theatre (Seats 55) and Lovett Auditorium (seats 1200). The department utilizes “smart” classrooms, a dance/acting studio classroom and other facilities on the MSU campus for instruction.

Students are prepared for careers as actors, directors, managers, designers, technicians, graduate students and/or employment in fields requiring high-level communication skills and teamwork.

For the student body at large, the program affords the opportunity to experience, as audience or participants, a wide range of dramatic forms selected both to educate and to entertain.

Each theatre major is required to work in or on twelve (12) faculty-directed productions prior to graduation. Theatre minors are required to work in or on 6 productions prior to graduation. Enrollment in THD 098 as required by the major and/or minor monitor this production requirement. At least one study abroad experience is highly encouraged for all theatre majors and minors. The department faculty participates in study abroad courses to facilitate this activity. Students may participate in two organizations in the department: Alpha Psi Omega (national honorary dramatic society) and Sock and Buskin (theatre student organization).

Scholarships

Scholarships are available to qualified students who major in theatre. For additional information refer to the scholarship section of this Bulletin or contact the Chairman of the Theatre Department.

Accreditation

Murray State University is an accredited institutional member of the National Association of Schools of Theatre (NAST).
