United States Postal Service Publications

As the education writer for the Stamp Services group of the USPS in Washington, D.C., I worked with a USPS team to create multiple education kits correlating with special stamp issuances. I conducted the research, wrote the biographies, and created the lesson plans. The USPS disseminated these kits to 265,000 American classroom teachers. These education kits received special recognition from a variety of constituents including the USPS in their inner office e-newsletter, LiteBlue; Dr. Randy Dunn, Dr. King Alexander, and Dr. Russ Wall; the Murray Roundabout; COE e-newsletter; the Hardin and Murray postmasters; Pella Corporation; and the Murray Ledger and Times. I was interviewed by Eileen Imada, a Boston public radio producer and freelance journalist. The Fire Within kit was featured in The American Teacher. Multiple kits have been displayed at Waterfield Library and in College of Education exhibits. I also consulted with Joanna Kearney, from New Zealand, regarding a post office board game and shared our education kits with Washington DC teachers at a special Smithsonian Teachers' Night event. Furthermore, these efforts were recognized by our college through two College of Education Creativity Awards.
