JANUARY 2012 RESIDENCY SCHEDULE

2:30 – 4:00 p.m. Genre Seminar: Creative Nonfiction – Paul Walker (FH 105)

   Nature Writing in Canyon Country

   We will read selections from Edward Abbey's Desert Solitaire, Wallace Stegner's The Sound of Mountain Water, and Terry Tempest Williams' Red. Each of these authors takes a different approach in describing, praising, and disturbing the remote, Redrock canyons of the Colorado Plateau, sharing an honest realism about their wild "home" rather than a far-off idealism of wilderness. We will discuss their approaches in terms of general conventions of nature writing as well as the humor, politics, and eroticism found in their work.

4:00 – 5:30 p.m. Genre Seminar: Fiction - Tim Johns  (FH 106)

   J. M. Coetzee’s Disgrace and Short Fiction from South Africa

   This seminar focuses on J. M. Coetzee’s Disgrace, a variety of South African short stories, and the legacy of apartheid in South Africa. While apartheid—a form of white minority rule that ended in South Africa in 1994—inspired a fair share of committed, didactic political writing, it also fostered a brilliant tradition in prose fiction. Indeed, two Nobel Prize winners in literature have so far emerged from this tradition: J. M. Coetzee and Nadine Gordimer. In our seminar, we will examine how the elevated craft of Coetzee’s novel, as well as rich stories by Gordimer and others, function within the constraints of apartheid’s harrowing legacy.
