APPLICATION DEADLINE: 1 June

Required Materials

- Letter of application
The letter of application should detail academic and professional teaching qualifications, reasons for wanting to pursue the Doctor of Arts degree, and expectations for the program's effect upon the applicant's career.
- Official copies of transcripts for all higher education institutions attended
(submitted directly to the Office of Graduate Admissions)
- Writing sample
Applicants must submit an original research essay or an excerpt of no more than twenty pages on a topic in the field of English or English language arts pedagogy; of course, the essay or excerpt must be the applicant's own work.
- Portfolio of sample teaching materials with coversheet
The portfolio of sample teaching materials must include four to five artifacts of the applicant's own design indicative of the applicant's teaching ability. These may include syllabi, instructional or unit plans, assignment guides, and/or other materials related to teaching English. The portfolio may also opt to include a single video recording of the applicant's teaching; the video recording should be a clip of no longer than five minutes.

Optional Supplemental Materials

Applicants may also submit additional materials to supplement the application, although such materials will only be used for considerations of conditional admission to the program. The following materials, though not required, are welcome:

- Curriculum vitae
- Official GRE General scores
- Other material evidence of academic abilities or abilities as a teacher

Language Proficiency Materials

Applicants who are non-native speakers of English or who have not earned a previous degree in the field from an accredited U.S. institution must also submit current, official scores for the TOEFL or IELTS reflecting program admission standards described in the current Murray State Bulletin. The program committee considers evidence of language proficiency broadly as outlined in the current Academic Bulletin.

Letters of Recommendation

All applicants must also have three letters of reference submitted directly by referees. At least two of the letters should address the applicant's academic ability; at least one of the letters should address the applicant's teaching ability or likely teaching ability. Referees should include their own contact information and should send letters directly to the Program Director either via post or email at the address indicated below in Contact Details:

Submission of Application Materials and Deadline

All application materials must be submitted by 1 June for full consideration for admission to that year's cohort; the program committee may begin admitting students to the cohort as early as 1 March. The Murray State University graduate application may be submitted online, and official transcripts should be sent by the institution directly to Graduate Admissions as part of that process.

All other required materials (letter of application, writing sample, portfolio of teaching materials, and other supplemental materials) should be submitted electronically (via file-sharing services such as Google Drive) to the Program Director in a shareable form, or as hardcopy via post.

Interview

Applicants who move to the next stage of consideration may be asked to participate in an interview with the members of the program committee as part of the application process. The interview may be conducted face-to-face or via videoconference.
