

Endorsement for Instructional Computer Technology: P-12

PROGRAM OF STUDIES:

Program participants learn how to develop more effective instruction with appropriately infused technology so that all students can learn at higher levels. Participants will develop the skills and dispositions of reflective decision-makers through program experiences that prepare them to assess and identify instructional computer technology opportunities in the classroom, to develop technology-infused instruction, and to reflect on and refine the impact of their instruction on student learning. Completion of the program with a minimum 3.0 GPA and a passing score on the portfolio shall result in a recommendation for the instructional computer technology endorsement (P-12).
